

There are friends

There are friends who make your problems their own,

Who never gonna leave you alone,

Who will stay with you until the end,

Who will fall with you again and again.

There are friends who send you text messages every day

Who help you when you aren't OK.

Who always listen to you,

Who always do what you do.

No matter how far you are from the other,

You will love them like a sister or a brother.

Because there are friends, and there are family.

And then are friends that become family.
